Steel Settlement Seen as Union Cuts Demands

Hotel Group Wants Rate Sign Removal

Councilwoman Under Attack for Posting Prices at Hotel

Councilwoman Mary Carlin, under attack by fellow members of the Palm Springs City Council for posting a rate sign on the front of her El Tram Hotel, came under new fire this week when the Palm Springs Hotel and Apartment Association demanded the removal of all such signs from Village Hotels.

Mrs. Carlin, declining to remove the rate card, declared that the city's ordinance is unconstitutional.

"I PROVED IT WHEN I beat the city in the state's Supreme Court before becoming a council member," she added.

A varying view was expressed by City Attorney Jerry Bunker who pointed out that since Mrs. Carlin's victory over the city's law, the ordinance has been rewritten.

"The new law has never been tested," Bunker said.

Mrs. Carlin said, however, that the new ordinance — because it confines the sign restriction to hotels on Indian Avenue and Palm Canyon Drive only — is discriminatory. She said for that reason it would not hold up under court testing either.

COUNCILWOMAN Ruth Hardy defined an interpretation of the code as being "for the good of Palm Springs" and said it should be strongly supported — especially by council members.

Mayor Frank Bogert said that "because Mary Carlin has rates posted, other hotels feel they should have the same thing."

The Hotel Association demand, in a letter from Harry Paisley, said that some hotelmen had indicated they would remove their rate signs "when other cards come down." Some members have declined to retain membership in the association, he said, until the signs are removed.

The council voted 6-1 — with Mrs. Carlin voting against — to direct the city attorney to enforce the ordinance and effect the removal of all signs.

POLICE RELEASE KNIFING VICTIM —IT'S STILL MYSTERY

Palm Springs police may never know how 21-year-old Barbara Ann Begies received a series of near-fatal chest wounds in a Beverly Hills knife slashing that was believed to have been a gangland attempt on her life.

Detective Sgt. John Herrera said the pert, Hollywood brunette "broke down and cried" every time she was asked about gangsters or the Mafia in an attempt to explain the week-old, unreported knifing. She refused to talk because she "feared for the lives" of her parents, police said.

Since Beverly Hills police evinced no interest in the case, police were forced to release Miss Begies and her companion, Roy William Cummings, 30, of Hollywood, after they were fined $50 each for false hotel registration. They were arrested Wednesday night for registering as man and wife in a local hotel.

Grid Practice Nets Broken Arm For Village Boy

A youth suffered a double fracture of the arm in football practice at the Nellie Coffman Junior High School yesterday afternoon, and returned home by bus for treatment.

School officials reported that the youth, Mark Fitzgerald, 12, was taken to the school nurse's office for observation, and upon seeing his bus about to leave walked out and boarded it. They added that at the time they were about to contact his mother, Mrs. W. J. Fitzgerald, of 259 North Indian Avenue.

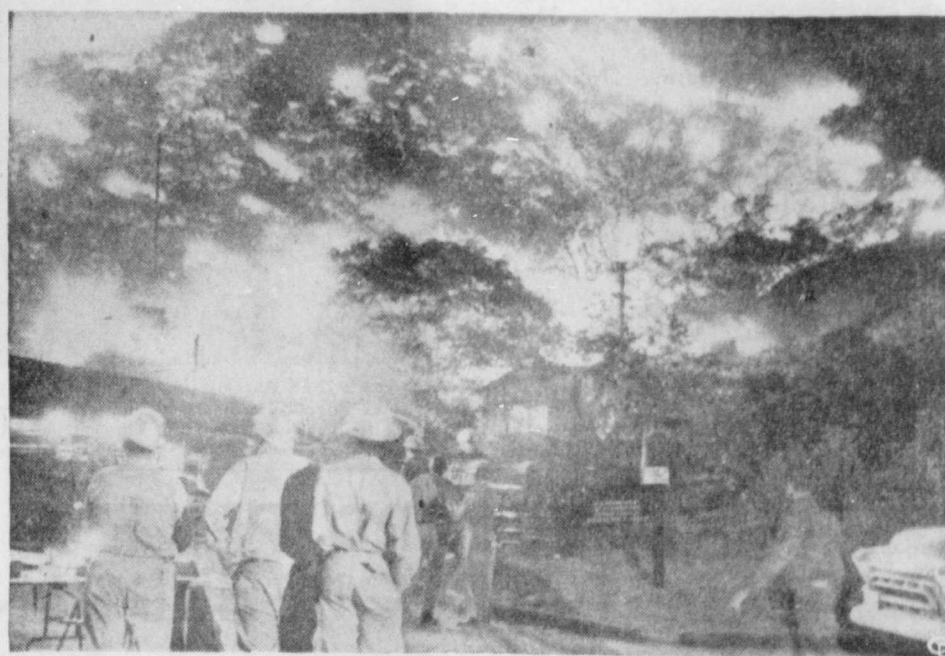

Mrs. Fitzgerald confirmed this morning that her son voluntarily left the school, and that he was treated by a private physician.

School policy does not permit medical treatment without approval of the parents, it was explained. Early reports of the incident implied negligence on the part of the school, leading to a full investigation by Schools Supt. Dwight Twist, and the above report.

Rebels Claim New Successes

TOKYO (UPI) — Rebel reports reaching Tokyo today from Communist-harassed Laos claimed "continuing" successes against royal Lao government troops.

The claims were made in spite of the admission by the rebel Lao forces that they were forced to withdraw from some areas of Samneua Province in northern Laos.

LA CANADA FIRE OUT OF CONTROL

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A threat to homes.

IN SACRAMENTO, Gov. Edmund G. Brown has pledged the aid of several state agencies in the fight to control brush fires in Angeles National Forest and Tanager Canyon.

Brown said he also asked the Department of Natural Resources to estimate possible damage that might be caused by rains in the denuded watersheds this winter.

AN ESTIMATED 80 persons were forced to spend the night away from their threatened homes in the big Tanager Canyon in the foothills about 20 miles northeast of here since erupting Tuesday afternoon.

The wind-whipped fire has burned an ugly black scar of 7,200 acres of valuable watershed in the foothills about 20 miles northeast of here since erupting Tuesday afternoon.

MORE THAN 2,000 men were massed against the crackling blaze feeding on thick undergrowth, scrub oak and pine trees. Perimeter of the giant blaze was estimated at 40 miles.

Another, less serious but potentially dangerous, brush fire erupted Thursday afternoon in Tanager Canyon near Malibu, some 40 miles or more southwest of the foothill blaze in the Angeles National Forest. It has burned 250 acres but was no immediate GLENDALE (UPI) — Two men convicted of impeding firemen in performance of their duties at the Angeles National Forest fire were sentenced to five-day jail terms Thursday by Municipal Judge Kenneth White.

Glen Merrill Valpey, 24, Sunland, and Philip Carl Conisher, 19, Tujunga, were arrested Wednesday morning when they returned to the fire area as spectators after once being ordered to leave.

Citizen's Group For College Bonds Thanked

The Coachella Valley Junior College board of trustees last night issued a note of thanks to the Citizen's Committee for its efforts in rallying public support for the recently passed $3½-million bond issue to finance construction of the college.

Co-chairmen of the group were Earl Coffman of Palm Springs and Harry Holt of Indio.

"WE RECOGNIZE that an army of volunteer workers interested in education for young people sacrificed time needed for pressing business in order that an institution of higher learning may be born in this valley," the note said.

"We cannot thank all who participated because of the large number but we wish to thank those who took the leadership in forming the committee."

ALSO AT LAST night's meeting the board conferred with John Porter Clark, coordinating architect from the team of architects designing the new college.

Technical details of the architectural design were carefully discussed in the joint conference.

Ambush Killer

INDIO — Seventeen-year-old Henry Whitfield, the Indian Wells youth who shot and killed his child bride of 14 years, pleaded guilty in Superior Court here yesterday to a charge of second-degree murder.

Judge Hilton H. McCabe referred the case to the probation office for study and set the sentencing date for Nov. 5 at 2 p.m.

WHITFIELD HAD been scheduled to go on trial Monday for shooting his wife, Edna Mae Whitfield, through the head with a .22 caliber rifle as the girl stood on the steps of her parents' home on the Swangle Ranch near here July 12.

United Nations Week to Be Observed Here

United Nations Week, Oct. 13 through 24, will be observed in the Village, according to a proclamation issued today by Mayor Frank Bogert.

Mrs. Frankie Spitz has been asked by the mayor to serve as chairman for United Nations Week in Palm Springs. She has scheduled ceremonies at 12 noon, Thursday, Oct. 22, on the steps of the City Hall. The City Council, city officials headed by Mayor Bogert and City Manager Dan Wagner, along with members of the Lions Club and the American Legion Post will participate in the raising of the United Nations flag.

Mrs. Spitz, who is active on the international United Nations board and who attended meetings this summer in Bern, Switzerland, has been invited by Governor Edmund G. Brown to attend a reception honoring United Nations on Saturday, Oct. 24, at the Governor's Mansion in Sacramento.

Man Injured, Cited After Car Hits Truck

INDIO — Calire R. Smith, 43, of Riverside, was taken to Desert Hospital with injuries sustained yesterday evening when his car smashed into the rear of a parked truck on Highway 99, four miles north of Ramon Road.

The California Highway Patrol office here cited Smith for drunk driving.

They identified the trucker as Robert B. Bates, 23, of Phoenix. Smith received minor cuts and bruises and lost two teeth as a result of the crash, Bates was unhurt.

Brown to Decide Chessman's Fate

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Convict-author Caryl Chessman, who has fought to escape the gas chamber for 11 years, began a weekend of waiting today while Gov. Edmund G. Brown considered clemency and did "a little praying."

STEEL SHORTAGE CURBS PRODUCTION OF '60 AUTOMOBILES

DETROIT (UPI) — Steel shortages slowed the assembly lines of 1960 model car production for the first time today and boosted layoffs in General Motors to the 60,000 mark.

The figure represented close to 26 per cent of GM's total production force of 330,000.

At the same time, the auto industry reported new record sales of its new models, putting a tight squeeze on the availability of new cars.

Management To Study New Union Packet

Revised Demands Go to Steel Firms In Session Today

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Steel management negotiators agreed today to study scaled-down union wage demands in an effort to settle the 94-day-old steel strike.

The union's new proposal was presented at renewed direct negotiations between union and management, the first direct talks since Oct. 6.

R. CONRAD COOPER, chief management negotiator, told reporters after a one hour and 45 minute session that the revised proposal would be examined.

Both sides agreed to meet again Saturday afternoon in Cooper's hotel suite.

The development came as the government ordered available steel supplies channeled to the nation's missile and atomic defense programs.

THE ACTION, in effect, diverts all available steel coming from non-steel mills from civilian use.

Special rules to establish priorities were issued by the Business and Defense Service Administration of the Commerce Department.

The order was issued under the defense production act "to reduce disruption to military and atomic energy programs resulting from the steel strike."

AT PRESENT, it applies to the non-steel mills which are producing about 15 per cent of the nation's capacity. However, the same priority system will apply to the mills, now closed by strike, when they resume operation.

Under the priority system, steelmakers were directed to give "immediate top priority" in producing and delivering supplies for "urgent programs such as missiles and launching ships and nuclear-powered naval vessels."

Meanwhile, Cooper told newsmen that "we are, on both sides, strenuously endeavoring to reach an agreement to settle this issue."

NEITHER HE NOR Steelworkers President David J. McDonald would comment on terms of the new peace offer.

The development came as pressures mounted within the ranks of the "big 12" steel producers for a strike-ending settlement. Reliable sources said officials of the big Kaiser Steel Corporation were pressing for the other firms to agree to a 21-cent hourly wage-benefit package as part of a two-year contract.

A labor source said Edgar Kaiser, head of the ninth-ranking California steel producer, was pressuring other firms to take the union offer and end the walkout by 500,000 steel workers.

Kaiser appeared at the hotel where negotiations were taking place but denied that he participated in them. He said he would not sign a separate contract with the union.

Girlfriend Loses

Flynn's Jamaica Burial Ruled Out

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI) — Errol Flynn's estranged widow won a battle with Flynn's teenage girl friend today and arranged to have his body sent to Los Angeles by train tonight.

Earl Atchison, head of a funeral parlor where Flynn's body was taken Thursday after an autopsy determined he died from a heart attack, said he had been told by actress Patricia Wymore and her lawyer to ship the body to Los Angeles.

ATCHISON SAID he dealt exclusively with the lawyer, whom he identified as a Mr. Coll, and had met with no opposition from other parties. It was understood that by "other parties" Atchison referred to starlet Beverly Aadland, 17, the actor's "protege" and constant companion since the breakup of his marriage with Miss Wymore.

The Great Northern Railway train carrying Flynn's body will leave here at 6:35 p.m. P.S.T. today, Atchison said.

MISS AADLAND, who rode to the hospital with Flynn's body after vainly trying to breathe life into the aging actor after he was stricken, vowed she would fight to the death for Flynn's body. She said a burial anywhere but in Jamaica would be "over my dead body."

Market Eyes Strike Future Injunction Would Be Help, But Not Answer

By PAUL H. MACGREGOR
E. F. Hutton Company

For the past several days the market has oscillated within a relatively narrow margin (except the so-called space issues, which have been very strong). Obviously, the market is awaiting the outcome of the steel strike.

An injunction, which would put the men back to work, would help the economy, especially fabricators of steel, but it would not be a complete nor final answer. An injunction would still leave a cloud on the horizon and probably prevent real buoyancy in the market, although it would be an improvement over the present untenable situation and, in my opinion, the market would consider it, except the first reaction over the failure to effect a mutually agreed settlement before the deadline could prove a temporary disappointment.

INVESTORS, WHO are primarily interested in the long pull, having their eyes on 1960 and 1961, would do well, in my opinion, to go ahead right now and invest at least a part of their available funds without further delay.

Often an extended rise may start when least expected. We quote in part from the Investors Research letter of Oct. 9:

"THE SOPHISTICATED investor must guard continually against the most fatal error of all—which is repeated time and time again. That is: to abandon a sound investment program until the news background is rosy and stock prices are 'hot.' Bull markets originate at the strangest times. Usually, just at the point the casual observer least expects. There are never any bands playing or flags waving at the most opportune moment."

I think I would change the last sentence to read, "there are SELDOM any bands playing or flags waving at the most opportune moment," for if there should be an equitable settlement before the injunction is invoked, there would probably be considerable flag waving, since the steel strike seems to be the only major obstacle standing in the way of possibly the most prosperous era in American business.

WHEN MOLTEN steel is pouring again, the rail group will be a prime beneficiary. Association of American Railroads reported that up to Oct. 3, the steel strike had cost the carriers 1,830,000 cars of freight. The loss in the 2½ months was equivalent to more than three weeks of total current business. This means that when the mills are again operating, 1,830,000 carloadings will be piled upon the roads during the several months of replenishment of inventory, in addition to the "normal" run of business.

In other words, "normal" autumn loadings should be about 750,000 cars a week. Carloadings are now running less than 600,000 per week. . . .

The Rail Average is down approximately 10 per cent from the year's high versus about 6 per cent down on the Industrial Average.

ONE OF THE most encouraging factors about current business is consumer buying. Despite several hundred thousands unemployed, due to the steel strike consumers sales are making new records each month by large margins.

Investors should never lose sight of the fact that in the final analysis, all prosperity springs from consumer consumption. Every increase in employment and every industrial expansion receive impetus directly—or indirectly—from increased consumer sales or potential sales.

One final word on the steel situation. It appears both sides are adamant and pessimism is rife. The President's Fact Finding Board has requested an extension of time to Monday. Keep this in mind, it appears logical that each protagonist will remain adamant right up to the last minute, hoping the other will weaken. A mutual settlement may not eventuate, but if so it is likely to come shortly before the deadline.

WILLARD PRICES TOUR ON HUDSON

CATHEDRAL CITY — The first stop on the summer assignment of "globetrotting" Mr. and Mrs. Willard Price, was Albany N. Y. The well known travel author and his wife left Cathedral City last May to gather material for an article on the Hudson River for National Geographic.

They took with them a canoe with which they paddled the Mississippi two summers ago on a similar assignment. They enjoyed Albany during the colorful pageantry of the 350th Anniversary celebration of the discovery of the famous river by Henry Hudson.

THEY TOOK THE "Hudson River Day Line" and, according to Mrs. Price, the river boat that has plied the Hudson for so many years is on the verge of limiting the excursions to Bear Mountain and the Palisades Park. The Old Hudson River Night Boat has been discontinued.

They went out with the Coast Guard to the "Sandy Hook Light Ship", where the Hudson empties into the Atlantic, cutting under-water canyons a few thousand feet deep. From Albany they flew to the source of the Hudson, "Lake Tear of the Clouds", where the river rises in the Adirondacks.

THEY USED THEIR canoe on the upper river and the lakes and Mrs. Price said by taking advantage of the different types of transportation we learned many

Mr. Price's latest book is "Roaming Britain" and the fifth of his juvenile series "Whale Adventure", will be out in January in England as well as the United States.

McCarthy Hits State Judges On Traffic Job

Jurists Neglect Obligations, Says Director of DMV

BAKERSFIELD (UPI) — Director Robert McCarthy of the Department of Motor Vehicles today charged that many of the state's judges are not meeting their obligations in the handling of traffic cases.

In an address at a meeting of the California Judges, Marshals and Constables Association, McCarthy defended his order suspending the licenses of convicted drunk drivers.

HE SAID IT WAS put into effect because of failure of judges to do anything to cut traffic deaths.

"We all know that in far too many instances, many courts have been ruled by sentiment in rendering decisions and applying penalties in traffic violation cases," McCarthy said.

"Worse still, they have been prone to take the easy way out of disposing of traffic calendars. At the recent Governor's Traffic Safety Conference in Sacramento, I heard both judges and prosecutors suggest that the best solution to any traffic case would be to get the defendant to plead guilty."

McCarthy said that in order to obtain a guilty plea many judges promise to set a light penalty.

He said also that many judges take a soft approach toward traffic violators. He said this combination largely nullifies traffic safety efforts.

SINCE HE STARTED his program of suspending licenses of drunk drivers, McCarthy said there have been dozens of protests from judges throughout the state.

"These, mind you, are the very judges who exercise a loud voice in traffic safety work, the very judges who have been demanding that something be done about the drunk driver."

YOUNGSTER'S PRANK TURNS HOUSE INTO HUGE 'DEEP FREEZE'

PARK FOREST, Ill. (UPI) — When Laverne Larson and his two sons became so cold in their home they had to don sweaters and even overcoats to stay warm, he blamed it on unseasonably cold weather.

It wasn't until the three were leaving to spend the night in a friend's home, much warmer, that he discovered his water pipes were frozen.

Then he learned that a playmate of his 13-year-old son had turned the air conditioner control to 30 degrees.

BUNTON, England (UPI) — Britain's good humor men may lose their good humor when they hear this one—

Addressing the annual conference of the Ice Cream Alliance, C. T. Heinlein said under a new code, ice cream sellers who use vehicles will be recommended:

—To use musical chimes which will not sound more frequently than every five minutes.

—To be sure the chimes sound only for five seconds at a time.

—Never to increase the volume of the chimes.

—And to observe a "curfew of 7 p. m." after which times chimes should be kept at a minimum.

House Starts Probe of Cal Reds Tuesday

Committee Slates Start of Hearings In Los Angeles

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Committee on Un-American Activities of the Communist party in Southern California at public hearings in Los Angeles starting Tuesday.

The hearings will be conducted by a three-man subcommittee headed by Rep. Morgan M. Moulder (D-Mo.).

COMMITTEE SOURCES said that at least two of the three members were certain to attend the hearings. They are Moulder and Rep. Donald L. Jackson (R-Calif.). The third member, Rep. Edwin Willis (D-La.) was not expected to attend.

Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.) chairman of the full committee, said the public hearings would run at least three days and that about 40 witnesses will be called.

THE HEARINGS will be the first conducted in the area since the committee last April issued a report charging that the Communist party has "remarshalled its forces" in California for a "new offensive in the Golden State."

The committee said in that report that the Communist party of California now has the second largest concentration of Communists in the nation, ranking only behind New York State.

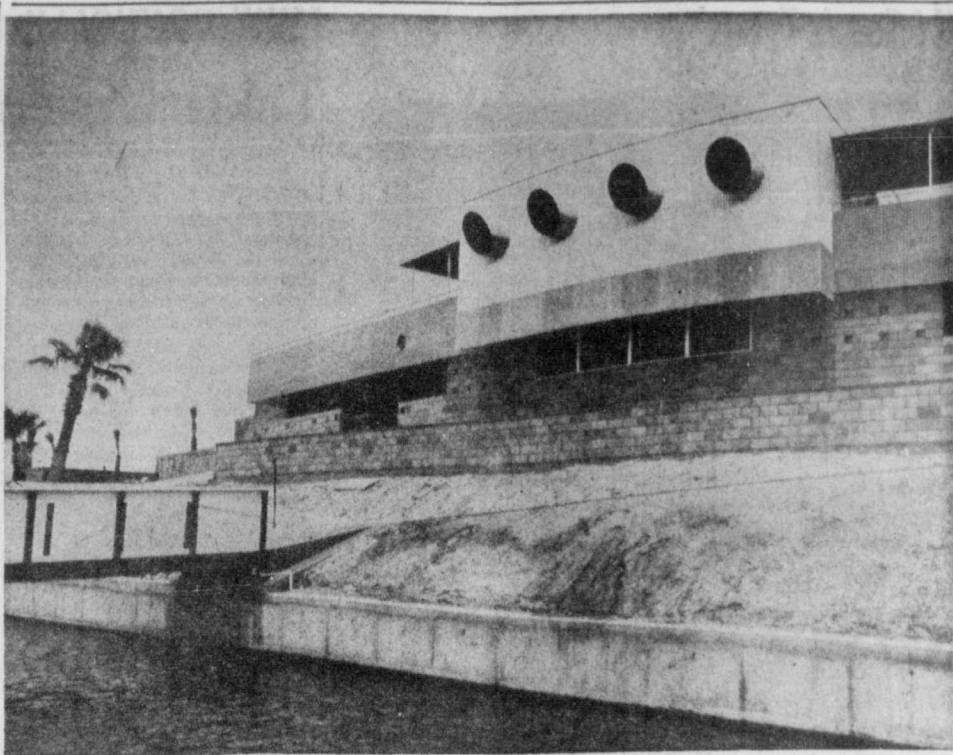

WALTER EMPHASIZED that the subcommittee was not going to inquire into Communists in the teaching profession. The committee earlier this year scheduled hearings on that subject, but cancelled them and turned its information over to local school boards with the understanding that these groups would conduct their own inquiries.

Walter said the forthcoming hearings will focus on "the extent, character and objects of Communist party activities in Southern California, with special reference to the western section . . ."

COMMITTEE OFFICIALS said the western section of the Communist party's Southern California district is centered in the "Greater Los Angeles area."

The report which stemmed from a two-year study by committee investigators identified Mrs. Philip Connelly as chairman of the southern district's Executive Committee. It also named the other eight Executive Committee members.

The report said the Communist party was engaged in a "massive effort to penetrate every segment of the California community" and added that Communists were under orders to "wear a new look."

For the Man With Everything-- Give Him a Live Buffalo

By MICHAEL POSNER
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attention suburbanites:

If you consider beagles are boring, parakeets passe and other conventional pets old hat, how about an honest to goodness buffalo to liven things up around your ranch-style home

FOR THE MEN who have everything, Rep. Thomas J. Lane (D-Mass.) suggests a live buffalo or elk to roam the backyard.

Lane says the animals are now available from national wildlife refuges at reasonable prices. For example, you can buy one of the big game bison for $140 to add a little realism to games of cowboys and Indians.

LANE SAYS THE Fish and Wildlife Service is offering 303 buffalo and 91 elk as surplus animals.

Lane also has a solution for city dwellers who might have a tough time fitting one of the animals into an apartment. He says apartment dwellers may want to buy a burly buffalo for the kitchen range.

He says frozen buffalo meat will enable home owners to have "a good supply of meat on hand for the cold winter ahead."

A BUTCHERED, dressed and quartered buffalo carcass ranges from $165 to $200. Butchered elk goes for $100 to $130.

According to Lane, buffalo meat is tender but he has a warning for those who want to buy buffaloes on the hoof.

BILLY GRAHAM MEETS PRESIDENT —IN BATH TOWEL

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — How do you dress if the President of the United States comes calling? Wear what you have on, evangelist Billy Graham advises.

In his case, it was a bath towel.

Graham played golf Monday with Vice President Richard M. Nixon. President Eisenhower finished behind them.

"I was in the shower when someone brought word the President wanted to see me," Graham said. "So I went out with a towel tied around me to talk to him."

Dear Abby...

...by Abigail VanBuren

DEAR ABBY: My brother has a newspaper route and he has a lady on his route who is 82 years old. She gets lots of nuts and candy and a bushel of apples from Seattle at Christmas and she has no teeth so she gives this stuff to my brother. Only she gives it to him in June or July.

The chocolates are wormy and melted and the nuts are not crunchy any more and the apples are rotten. Then she asks my brother how it was and he has to lie and say fine.

My brother says she forgets she has this stuff, so I said he ought to remind her in January. He says it is bad manners. What do you say?

SIS
DEAR SIS: Your brother is right. It IS bad manners to "remind" a person to give you something. Your brother should accept what she offers, when she offers it. Pretend to be pleased. And then take it home and throw it out.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem mother. If a letter comes for me when I am at school it is always opened by the time I get home. Mother says that Jimmy opened it before she could stop him. (Jimmy is my four-year-old brother.) Or else she says she tore it open before she looked to see who it was to. I have nothing to hide, but don't you think a girl my age deserves some privacy? I am 14.

NO PRIVACY
DEAR NO: Your mother can't use these excuses too many more times without making herself appear very foolish. Ask her please to sort the mail carefully and put yours out of Jimmy's reach. Wise mothers build better relationships with their daughters by respecting their privacy.

DEAR ABBY: I am a married woman. I hope you won't think my question is too silly to answer. But I have looked in the etiquette books and can't find the answer to my question anywhere.

When you are invited to a party, is it proper to ask, "Who else will be there?" I would never think of asking such a question but I have had many number of people ask ME who else will be there when I have invited them to a party. Thank you, kindly.

MIRIAM
DEAR MIRIAM: The thoughtful hostess, when extending an invitation, might volunteer this information along with "what kind of a party it will be" to clue in her guests on what to wear. But it is never, never proper for one who is invited to a party to ask "Who else will be there?"

TV Quiz Show Autopsy

A virtuous service of incalculable general public benefit is being performed by House subcommittee now investigating the alleged "rigging" of the big cash quiz shows popular with television viewers a year or so ago.

Most shows containing the elements placing them under suspicion met an instant end upon the first revelations indicating "fixing" many months ago as a result of being cancelled by the networks or being turned off by a disillusioned and disgusted public.

However, for the good of "show business" and to guard against the public again becoming so foolishly gullible, it is well to uncover all the facts, methods, participants and performers in the perpetration and practice of this greatest mass deception in the history and name of American "entertainment."

In recent days the admissions of various individuals who took part, that the "winners" were deliberately selected and coached on their performance for most dramatic effect in building up audience suspense, has been sufficient to serve as a lasting lesson to the public against placing too much credence in all acts of the ancient art of make-believe.

The millions who hovered so tensely over the television sets, breathlessly awaiting each answer, are deeply disappointed, have suffered a severe shock in loss of trust and confidence in the honesty of humanity and feel angrily aggrieved at themselves for having been so "taken in."

It is only natural to feel that some manner of punishment or retribution should be visited upon those responsible and taking part, and that some form of regulations or legislation should be devised to prevent repetition in the interest of the public and the industry. As the hearing before the House committee progresses, however, it is becoming evident that no "crime" was involved by those engaged in the plotting and play-acting due to the traditional license of the stage to fool the public as it wills. Likewise it seems next to impossible to legislate "honesty" into show business since most of the entertainment world depends upon fiction and fantasy for its very existence, however delightfully presented.

In the end the greatest force to punish deliberate deceit and deception, and correct any glaring departures from desirable and acceptable practices and pleasing performances in any entertainment medium lies within the public itself, and does not require new legislation to implement it.

We refer to public opinion. The attitude of the public is all important and conclusive in anything so completely dependent upon public approval or support as is show business.

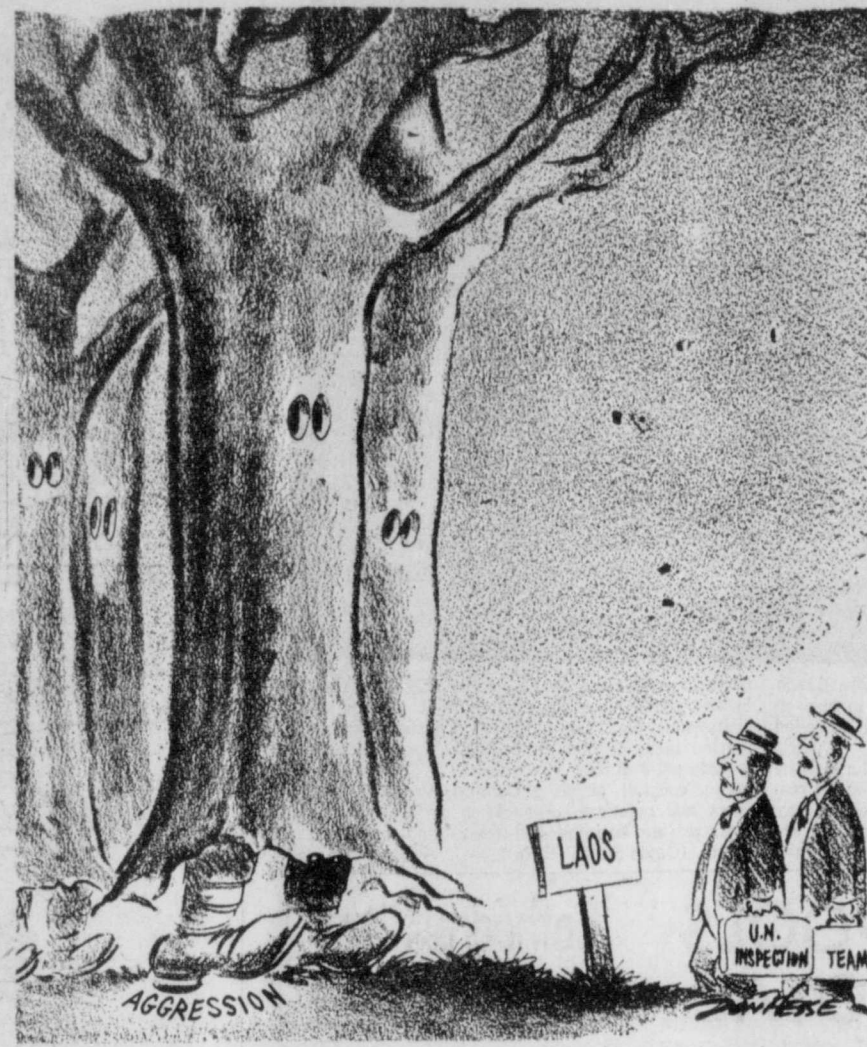

This was amply demonstrated in the case of the "rigged" TV shows which died instantly when an outraged and shocked public turned off the programs in a rage of indignant protest.

The present congressional hearings are somewhat in the nature of a careful and formal autopsy over the cold corpse. The public shame it brings to the conspirators, the warning to all others, and the reminder to the public to guard against being too lavish with its gullibility in the future, are all constructive consequences.

May all who had even the slightest part in the rueful experiences take heed and act accordingly henceforth.

We will have no one to blame but ourselves if we again become a sucker.

'All I See Is Trees'

This Side Of The Sun

By Phat

A peaceful place
 To travel through.
 No billboards there
 To hide the view.

That new four-lane divided highway through the Badlands between Beaumont and Riverside is open, I have been for a few weeks.

It connects Beaumont with that freeway built a few years ago through the hills and cuts time to the county seat many minutes.

When they build that stretch between the hills and the top of Box Springs grade, the trip to Riverside will be a breeze.

EVER SINCE the first time I traveled that stretch of four lane, divided road, something had puzzled me. There was something different besides the fact that you weren't being trapped behind slow-moving trucks.

Then coming up this week, it dawned on me what this big difference is.

You can see the scenery.

FROM JUST BEYOND Beaumont clear through the hills and almost to Sunnyside, there's not a billboard.

The view of the green valley and the rugged mountains is unimpeded.

The only signs, and they are small, are put up by the state warning you to be careful about tossing out burning matches or cigarettes.

"Only you can prevent a fire," you know.

COMPARED to the highway between Palm Springs Junction and Banning, it is quite a relief.

That stretch, especially this side of Cabazon, is thick with billboards. And some of them are far out of date.

Started to count the billboards in that six miles a couple of times but have always been distracted at the wrong time and missed after about 150.

WHILE THERE ARE no big golf tournaments to attract nation-wide attention going on right now in Palm Springs, we are getting coast to coast publicity for our fine courses, just the same.

Those "All-Star Golf" matches which were filmed here in the Spring, are now being shown on Channel 7, ABC-TV. Last Saturday I watched Sam Snead and Bob Player meet at Eldorado Country Club. Recognized several people in the gallery.

THERE'LL BE another local showing tomorrow afternoon on ABC-TV when Player meets Billy Casper at Bermuda Dunes Country Club. I know who won that one because I saw it live, but I'm not going to tell you.

See it on Channel 7 tomorrow at 5:30 p.m. and have the fun I did viewing my own home area on the TV screen.

Along with Ike's recent golfing visit here, these All-Star Golf pictures are giving wide fame to the Palm Springs area. And wait until our big tournaments start rolling in less than a month!

Then the nation will really know about us.

STAN DELAPLANE:

Too Late to Classify

Classified ad: "Golden opportunity! Anybody wishing to unload an old car suitable for seven young ladies, kindly contact the writer. Young ladies wish to use this car for car pool and going on picnics and things like that. Daddy." They offer $70 cash.

I have a horrid suspicion it is MY cash they are offering. And I will be left as usual with a pocketful of dreams and hard-to-collect notes.

I AM INSTRUCTED to place above classified ad IMMEDIATELY. This idea was born in the constructive minds of "The Dominican Car Pool and Good Works Society."

It is an organization of seven teen-age girls who are now driving their fathers' cars to school. (Alternately, of course. One day out of seven one father takes the bus to work.)

THE ADVANTAGES of this are so many that the Society was breathless on the telephone. "You see, THIS WAY all the fathers can KEEP their cars!" (Thank you, ma'am.)

"And it would be real keen fun and we could take out people who NEED taking out. What I mean, it isn't just for our OWN pleasure. It would be constructive."

"Who would you take out, my dear?"

WELL, IT SEEMS they would take out shut-ins. Or orphans. Or people who don't have a car. They would also shop for their mothers.

"You would take boys, too?"

Yes, they would take boys sometimes. But THAT is NOT the whole idea and why do I make it sound that way? It is really for the fathers. So they can have their cars to themselves on car pool days.

I AM ALMOST sure it will be a loan. Baby-sitting money does not last long.

It will be pointed out to me that I should finance this project. "Because we are doing it all for YOU!"

So many things are done for me that I can scarcely afford it.

I RARELY GET money paid back. You know why? Because it seems I OWE money to this child. Money I have forgotten. And she has been too nice to bring up. Until now when I try to collect.

MIKE CONNOLLY:

Take Up for Ingemar

HOLLYWOOD — Heavyweight champ Ingemar Johansson got so excited about co-starring with Sidney Poitier and Alan Ladd in "All the Young Men" he signed the Columbia Pictures contract without giving it much thought.

Came the Dawn, as the silent picture slides used to say, and Ingemar's manager discovered that his valuable client had signed up for a mere $15,000 for two weeks' work.

And that's HAY in almost any language, especially after the fine showing Ingo made on the Dinah Shore show as an entertainer — also in view of what his name could mean at the theatre boxoffices of the world.

However, the William Morris Agency moved in and Ingo's contract has been changed to provide five weeks' work in front of the cameras—for slightly more money: $40,000.

IN LIEU OF THIS, I hear, Ingo has also agreed to stall on defending his title as long as possible, so that he'll still be champ AND boxoffice bait when the movie is released.

How does Ingo's salary of $40,000 stack up against the salary Sophia Loren is getting for co-starring with Clark Gable in "American, Go Home" (formerly "Bay of Naples")? Well, Soph is getting $250,000, which makes her the new Doris Duke of the Cinema Set, especially since it's stacking up for her in the Bank of Switzerland. Nice stacking.

GABLE TELLS ME they've been shooting the picture on the Italian Riviera, and screenwriter Jack Rose has written so many bikini-clad cuties into the script they might change the title again — to "Bay of Navelis!"

P.S. from Gable: "Please tell your printer to make that a capital V in 'Navelis' — we're shooting it in VistaVision!"

Jack Oskie on the phone: "No, no, I'm not talking about the acting profession in Hollywood, I'm talking about my next movie and HONEST, it's titled 'The Rat Race!'"

Harding vs. Hayes sounds something like an old-time Presidential campaign but it isn't this time: it's Ann Harding vs. Helen Hayes for the role of Naomi in "The Story of Ruth" at Fox.

FLAP THE FLAGS, open fire with the file-clops — Joan Crawford's "bit role" in "The Best of Everything" is brilliantly done and much bigger than her billing in the ads. It's also bigger than Joan has been telling people — she has three times as much footage as Wendy Hiller had in "Separate Tables," in fact, and Wendy won an Oscar for that, you may recall.

It's what's known in the trade as a "woman's picture" but I think the guys will go for it, too, especially with such pretty gals as Hope Lange, Martha Hyer, Diane Baker, Suzy Hyer and Pat Crest in the cast.

JACK CARDIFF, who directed that runaway "Room at the Top" hit, checked in to direct the movie version of the late D. H. Lawrence's "Sons and Lovers." He ordered a happy ending for it; otherwise it's "faithful to the book," including the part where the doting Momma shoves her sons into the arms of a married woman.

Cliff Arquette tells me he received word from Mount Ida that a neighbor lady's landlord evicted her because he objected to the record-player she had in her room. It seems it was a six-foot disk jockey.

CHANNEL CHATTER — The local TV stations here in Los Angeles should tape some of the shows we get here in connection with movie premieres and ship them around the country. The things they say on some of them are unbelievably funny.

Last week, for instance, Paramount had a premiere of its new Clark Gable-Carroll Baker movie, "But Not for Me," and set up TV cameras in the Pantages Theatre lobby for Larry Finley to interview the celebrities.

Larry is a nice guy but he doesn't always read up on his subject before he tackles the job — and what could be more boring than a TV emcee who talks, talks, talks and doesn't say anything. Here's a sample of what we got on KTLA, LA's Channel 5, that night:

FINLEY: "HOW about that! LOOK at all the stars here tonight! I've never seen so many before and most of them arrived in the new 1960 Chrysler. And look who's there — Cesar Romero! Hey, Cesar, here's our TV cameras — Cesar —"

Cesar (back to camera, gets swung around by Finley): "Uh, er — why, yes! Well —"

Finley: "Cesar, it's sure nice to see you again. You're gonna see a GREAT picture here tonight. Yeah, it's the GREAT-EST. What have you been doing, Cesar? You look WONDERFUL. Now wait till you see this picture —"

CESAR: "YES, well — uh — oh, Fieldsie! Fieldsie, come here. Larry, this is my date tonight — Mrs. Walter Lang — you know Fieldsie Lang?"

Finley: "Oh, Fieldsie, sure I know her, my old and dear friend —"

Mrs. Lang: "We have met before, haven't we —"

FINLEY: "REMEMBER all the fun we used to have when I owned the restaurant on the Strip? I haven't seen you since! How've you been? You look WONDERFUL. Oh, wait! You see this WONDERFUL picture. It's WONDERFUL!"

Mrs. Lang: "Oh, yes. Well — uh —"

Finley: "By the way, how is that talented husband of yours, Walter Lang? He's a GREAT director, yes, just the GREAT-EST — don't you agree, Cesar? Isn't Walter GREAT? Why, I can remember all those wonderful pictures he directed — incidentally, where is Walter tonight?"

CESAR: "HE'S home, probably watching this show right now. Larry, wasn't feeling so good. That's the reason I was lucky enough to accompany Mrs. Lang to the theatre."

Finley: "Well, he's a WONDERFUL guy — yes, sir, a WONDERFUL guy. Oh, Fieldsie, what's Walter been working on lately?"

Mrs. Lang (flustered and shoved around by the lobby throng and just about three feet off the ground by now): "Well, he directed THIS picture —"

Finley: "Walter directed 'But Not for Me'? Uh — he DID? Well, whaddya know. Yeah, he's a GREAT guy —"

The McClellan Committee

WASHINGTON, D.C. — "The United Auto Workers," says UAW President Walter Reuther, not without a touch of smugness, "urged the creation of the Senate (McClellan) Committee before it was established."

Some who have worked closely with the Committee over its three-year life believe that Mr. Reuther has done more than give his blessing to this Labor-shaking probe of modern Trade Unions.

TO BE FRANK, there are those who will tell a reporter under the don't-quote-me rule that Mr. Reuther's was the unseen hand which steered the Committee in its demolition work on what could be called the Right Wing of the Labor Movement, and which diverted the Committee when it was about to kick down the door and drag some skeletons out of the closet that belong to the Left Wing of Labor.

The story here becomes unavoidably entangled with the Brothers Kennedy — Robert, the Committee's chief counsel and John, one of its members. The young counsel really ran the show, using as many as 45 investigators, and pretty much picking the targets of opportunity. Some of his victims were Democrats from Oregon, Louisiana and Indiana. But the ones that Robert Kennedy really laid low in this investigation were Labor leaders named Beck, Hoffa and Hutcheson.

THEY HAD ONE common denominator. They were oriented toward the Modern Republican party and were interested in laying hands upon large sums of money. They were not concerned with social reform or welfare. Their destruction as Labor leaders of standing meant that the AFL part of the AFL-CIO merger was hurt, and that the CIO part of that merger was assisted in power.

When the time came for the investigation of Reuther, there was some very evident foot-dragging on the Democratic side of the eight-member Committee. Whatever else is true of Reuther, he clearly represents the Rooseveltian liberalism of the Democratic party and he shines with the ardor of social reform and welfare.

BOB KENNEDY went to the Committee and asked to be relieved of the main duty of sleuthing the case against Reuther and, in particular, the UAW strike against the Kohler Company in Wisconsin.

Kennedy is deeply hurt, he says, when his friends, like this one, ask him if he saw any political conflict of interest which caused him to stand aside at the Reuther investigation. Many people have said that had Bob Kennedy gone after Reuther with the ferocity he showed for Beck and Hoffa, Reuther would be a ruined man.

THIS OBSERVATION also infuriates the chief counsel. He says that he knows of nothing in Reuther's record that compares with the thieving and looting of Beck and Hoffa. He challenges anybody to bring out facts that would warrant an investigation of Reuther's honesty. This is the stopper. Despite years of delving by Reuther's foes, nobody to this day has brought a damaging charge against him.

Still, an election is looming in which Senator Kennedy is a leading light. Reuther has no reason to hold any grudge against the Kennedys, and there is much for which the Labor leader can thank the chief counsel and the Massachusetts Senator. Not the least of it occurred at the end of the Congressional session when the Committee finished its agenda. The occasion was a last-ditch sortie by the Republicans of the Committee to show corruption and improper political activities on the part of Reuther's union, the UAW.

SENATOR CURTIS of Nebraska and his minority counsel, Robert Manuel, did some private gunshoeing and loosed a surprise attack. There followed an unprecedented flurry between Bob Kennedy and Senator Curtis, who was one of his bosses.

Kennedy: "This is the worst situation I have ever seen... placing a witness on the stand and not checking his story."

Curtis: "This morning I sat there and took a chastisement from you as an employee of this committee. If you want to ask any questions... be sworn."

CHAIRMAN MCCLELLAN broke up the spat, but it signalled what was apparently Reuther's last brush with danger from the McClellan Committee. Things like this have happened before. In 1950 Democratic Senator Tydings chaired a committee which officially cleared the Truman Administration of soft-on-Communist charges. It was the worst thing that ever happened to Millard Tydings and to the Democrats.

Such things can happen twice.

—Holmes Alexander

'Rocky' Can Buss Own Grandchild

NEW YORK — Steve Rockefeller and his bride popped out of a taxi and into a doctor's office on Madison Av., causing a loyal friend of ours, who saw them, to pant to the phone. "Wouldn't it be wonderful if 'Rocky' were to become a grandfather around convention time?" asked this friend of ours. We imagine it would be enjoyed by everybody — including the Governor, who's already five times a grandfather — except maybe the press agents for Richard Nixon.

"Where's Charlie? Where, oh where, can he be? In fact, were is Van Doren?" That's what they were asking when I wrote this. If they've found him since, just ignore the whole thing.

Did he go to Paris, to the Virgin Islands, or was he hiding behind a book at the Public Library? On a slightly smaller scale I'd like to point out that actress Susan Cabot ducked the press cleverly last April after she'd been King Hussein's date.

I asked one well-known subpena-ducker, "If you were Charles Van Doren, where would you hide?" and he said: "I'd go to Europe if I could afford it, and if I were Van Doren with his winnings, I could afford it!"

I just learned to my amazement that no burial has ever been held for "Superman" George Reeves. With his mother insisting on further inquiry into his June 16 suicide, Reeves' body is still in a Los Angeles mortuary almost four months later.

Gwen Verdon, who took over the Charles Van Doren apt. on Central Park West (she never found any answers or questions there) says he couldn't have been coached, "he's too brilliant." The B'way rumor persists that extremely valuable information about quizzes came from two ex-bosses of the $64,000 Question. . . . Sal Imbimbo, one of the greeters at Leone's, says the juvenile delinquents who got bawled out by their elders for cheating, etc., should sneer, "Yeah, what about those quiz show cheats — those adults?"

Brilliant comedian Sheeky Greene, starring in the new show at the Latin Quarter, claimed a woman customer said to him, "Do you mind some constructive criticism?" He said, "No, of course not." She said, "You stink." . . . The Gimma Brothers, the meshed cowgirls, Kitty Dolan and everybody else performed well . . . but for the gal customers the star was tall, handsome magician Channing Pollock from England. Actress Marilyn Mitchell, in the audience, said, "He's so handsome, I never remembered to look at his hands."

Ed Sullivan's going to present a remarkable husband and wife this coming Sunday night — Hayim Fershko, gifted pianist, and Sarah Fershko, a talented violinist, both of whom graduated from the Warsaw Conservatory 25 years ago. . . . and were injured in the bombing of Poland.

Each had an arm amputated. A surgeon operating on Fershko — without an anaesthesia — said, "You'll never be able to play the piano again."

Fershko was panicky the first time he sat down at a piano many, many months later. Could he play with one hand?

He and his wife went to Israel, and, perhaps inspired by others doing the impossible, developed their talent. Fershko will play Rachmaninoff, Grieg and Gershwin brilliantly with one hand; his wife, who trained her voice, will sing an Israeli cowboy song which says, "Desert . . . Wake Up . . . 2,000 Years Sleep . . . And Come With Me . . . We'll Make You Bloom Again."

Your correspondent here is supposed to present them to Ed on the program — that's how I know.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL

Cong. Adam Powell dug the Dorothy Donegan music at the Embers. . . . Comedian Mort Sahl bought a Beverly Hills home. The Phyllis Kirk marriage close? . . . Scott Weldon, the New Jersey Kim Novak, married Irving Feigles, the broker. . . . Groucho Marx has wished Goodman Ace all the best with his "Big Party" on TV even though it's on against him. . . . Ava Gardner's going to record "On the Beach" for Columbia — first time she's sung in years (her own voice, too, so they say).

John Barrymore Jr.'ll make some rock 'n' roll records; he says, "I have a head start — I already have the sideburns." . . . Ed Sullivan watched Steve Allen on TV, for the first time. . . . Mimi Hines (of Ford and Hines) decided not to have her famed buck teeth yanked; she'll undergo treatment instead. . . . Sammy Davis Jr.'s "date" at the Copa — his mother.

Bernard Baruch's writing a book about his work as adviser to presidents. . . . Elvis Presley's mgr., Col. Tom Parker, wired Nat Cole: "Please run me autographed photo, immediately, for my den." . . . Ginger Rogers said at the Playbill she'll go into the cosmetics business. . . . Steve Allen, who was a healthy guy in NYC, went to sunny L. A. — and missed rehearsals because he caught cold.

Cary Grant's "Operation Petticoat" deal, best of his career, can earn him up to 75 per cent of the profits, tax free. . . . Wealthy Sir Victor Sassoon, an El Morocco visitor, keeps his change in a little silver box. . . .

Clarke Lecture Unveils Twain as Social Philosopher

Samuel Clemens drew a rough-hewn characterization here last night as a man who fought and lost — regretfully but happily — a battle to learn, to know, to understand.

The characterization came from John Robert Clarke, the vagabond lecturer, who opened his 11-lecture fall series in the lounge of the Desert Inn last night.

"TWAIN IS KNOWN more as a comedian than a philosopher," Clarke observed, "and yet he was one of our first, and possibly one of our best, social philosophers."

The unlettered Twain, with his rustic humor in tow, rampaged through an era in American letters that hasn't been duplicated to this day, Clarke expounded. "He underwent the pain of self-discovery," Clarke explained, easily.

MARK TWAIN actually, played a multiplicity of roles, Clarke believes.

"But at 74, he was still trying to catch up — still trying to learn."

JOHN ROBERT CLARKE

"He was then ready to begin to grow."

Clarke likened Twain's attitude on his own abilities to the demeanor of Byron who, Clarke said, is reputed to have declared:

"My poetry may not be very good but at least I've got a good left hook."

LATER, FOLLOWING a coffee break, circle discussion brought forth individual analysis of the humorist by a "dense" (a borrowed phrase) crowd in the DI's lounge.

One attendee declared that Twain was a full circle away from the "phoniness and artificiality that have dogged the Western world for all our time."

Another characterized Twain as "an Oscar Levant without martinis."

MOST WERE agreed—although Clarke almost forbids unanimity—that Twain's most desired attribute was his ability to relate to his community. Today's citizen, the group chorused, usually seeks conversational compatibility rather than conversational stimulation.

The series will resume with Clarke's lecture on "Witchcraft" at 8 p. m., Thursday, in the Desert Inn. There was no mention made of whether tricks or treat would be allowed following the lecture.—G. L.

Merrie Britons Off To The Hunt

With a "Yoicks" and a couple of "Tally-ho's," Sir Reginald and Lady Pamela led their jolly sport car caravan to El Dorado Palms Estates, bordering fabulous Indian Wells Golf Course. "By Jove, this is smashing fun," cried Lady Pam, as Sir Reggie planted the family crest into his choice of a home-site. Remember . . . you needn't necessarily be visiting nobility to see El Dorado Palms Estates. Simply drive out, old girl, or jolly well call your realtor, today. Adv.

Cynthia Crow Celebrates Birthday at Halloween Party

Halloween was the seasonal motif for the party which celebrated the seventh birthday of Cynthia Lynn Crowe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Crowe, at 1240 Pasatiempo Road.

Cynthia received her little guests, wearing a witch's costume, while sister Cathleen was a clown, and little brother was an alarming leopard.

Each arriving guest was handed a Halloween party favor.

The table was decorated with Halloween cloth, cut-outs, and an unusual centerpiece was a Halloween Tree, with black base, black grass, and black coiled wires forming the tree, holding black and orange witches, cats, owls on its branches. There were games and the two sisters, Cynthia and Cathleen, staged a puppet show to amuse their guests.

The luncheon menu included assorted sandwiches, salad, punch, chocolate, coconut and toffee cakes and ice cream.

After luncheon the party guests attended a matinee.

Use Fish Oil for Lowering Cholesterol

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Recent research shows that the body oil of certain fish may be helpful in reducing the cholesterol level in human blood systems, the Interior Department said today.

Cholesterol is a fatty substance which some doctors feel is responsible for hardening of the arteries and other heart system ailments.

The department said the research, conducted by the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries and the Hormel Institute of the University of Minnesota, has "opened the way" for development of a fish oil food supplement to help lower the cholesterol content.

"The uncertainty of continued full-scale production of steel is effecting the production of new 1960 Cadillacs and Oldsmobiles. We prepared for this possible emergency by ordering an extra number of new 1959 models. These cars all carry the regular factory warranty, and are being offered at very attractive discounts. Why not stop in and inspect both these 1959 models, as well as the new 1960's which are now on display in our show room?"

Hansons Return to Desert

By GRETCHEN CHEESEMAN
The informal opening of Shadow Mountain Club will be Saturday evening, Oct. 17. This promises to be a crowded affair as most of the members are back now and with a floor show and dancing, everyone will have a gala evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hanson have returned to the desert for the winter season. Bob and May have many business projects here and are also in the center of community activities.

Mrs. Rupert Lewis of Santa Barbara has been spending the past week here. She has been a desert enthusiast for many years. She lived in La Jolla for several seasons but now finds Santa Barbara the ideal summer spot.

Mrs. Nina Shumway has opened her home for the winter. She has a summer cottage "up the mountain" which she enjoys during the warm weather.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Chase IV are back in their Willow Street home after a ten day vacation in the north. They spent a few days with his son and family in Lafayette, Calif., and then were at San Francisco with a sister for the remainder of the time.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Morck of Los Altos will be guests this week of their son, George Morck, who owns and manages the Gates of the Desert.

The Shadow Mountain Club Woman's Golf Association will hold its first luncheon meeting of the season, Monday, Oct. 19. Mrs. George Munns, president, urges everyone to come and bring a golf minded friend. This organization holds their luncheons once a month, and when the business meeting is over, they have a "fun" afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Temple Bridgman of Atherton, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith were weekend guests at Gates of the Desert, along with other friends from San Marino, Dr. and Mrs. Raymond L. Beebe and the Beebe's daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Coles.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Chambers Jr., entertained over the weekend a charming and interesting young lady from Scotland, Miss Doreen Urquhart. She has been in the country a year and is on her way home. The Chambers felt she must see the desert before her departure.

Mr. and Mrs. John Moran hosted a dinner party, Saturday night, at Shadow Mountain Club. Seen here and there the same night were the Jerry Malones, Dave MacClyments, the E. J. Oshiers, Bob and May Hanson, Ben and Eva Sponberg, Oscar Corvingtons, Robert Fithians, Harold Wieders, Bill Brooks, Wayne Needs, Harry Robertsons and guests, Mrs. Lorene Welch and her mother, Wilber Mennes and guests, William Dodds and guests, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Kapp and a party of 12, the J. H. Bryants, Art Ryons, Bob Coates, John Moons and more.

Dr. and Mrs. E. C. Ruge have returned from the Northwest where they summered. The city of Seattle was their "home base" while away.

PLANNING READY FOR SILVER SPUR

PALM DESERT—Adrian Schwick, president of Silver Spur Ranch Properties, has announced that architectural designs and landscape plans are being completed for an extensive development of a "sports coral" recreational area including swimming facilities, riding stables, corals, bridle trails and riders' training facilities, for resident children, adults and guests.

Included in the plans will be 15 estate-type homes master-planned around the recreational area, with direct access to the pool and landscaped gardens.

The 600-acre Silver Spur Ranch is being subdivided into parcels of one-third to two-acres and is being developed as luxurious estate properties.

Bing Crosby, Fred Haney, Ted Grouya, Randolph Scott and Phil Harris are among the 100 property owners. Total valuation of homes already completed is in excess of $2,800,000.

The ranch is adjacent to seven internationally known country clubs which have given the name "Country Club Valley" to the area between Palm Springs and Indio.

Completion of plans for the ranch totaling 375 million, will make it one of the most luxurious home site developments in the rapidly expanding desert area, according to Schwick.

GARDENING IN THE DESERT

Rose Bud Union Most Important

In our last issue we dealt with roses, preparation of soil, feeding of roses, planting, irrigation, etc. One potent item we failed to mention was the bud union, probably the most important item.

A friend of ours continually grumbled because his roses were not near as good as his neighbor's who spent less money on them. In looking them over we found many planting faults, rose beds with only a few inches between basins, no preparation of original bed, and the bud unions at least two inches above the soil level.

WE GAVE HIM hints on preparation of soil and bed, eventually talked him into taking out each alternate bush and planting them in another location, and told him to make sure each bud union is in the soil proper with just a little of it showing.

In our sandy soil oftentimes the strong roots will force the bud union upwards. This is exactly what had happened in our friend's garden, mainly because the roots of the bare-root roses had not been distributed evenly downwards on a cone of prepared soil as per instructions.

He now knows that sticking the plant in the soil and watering it is a costly and useless procedure, and he also knows that watering in locations where the soil is heavy and watering in the desert are very far apart — especially from a monetary standpoint.

VERDANT LAWNS will pop out everywhere during the next two months if the amount of grass seed now being imported is any criterion. Also there are new trees, vines, shrubs and flowers to be planted, beds of established plantings to be mulched, irrigation to be arranged in a systematic manner, not to mention the hours of cleaning up and raking of your grounds.

The appearance of many a garden has been ruined through over-anxiety to get things growing. Unless your grounds are spacious such plants as the giant Bird of Paradise and the Rice Paper Plant. In a small area such plantings will dominate everything else to the extent that the beauty of your smaller plants will be overshadowed and inconspicuous.

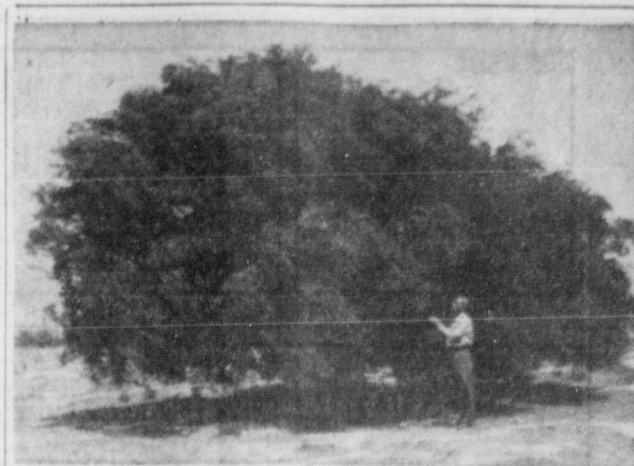

THE EFFECT OF the tout-ensemble should be visioned when planning the smaller garden. Don't overcrowd, give each individual flower its specified place, each tree, shrub and vine the space it will need at maturity. All of them will flourish better if this advice is followed. The root of each plant will have its own feeding ground from which to garner nourishment and you will eventually enjoy looking with pride on the results of your efforts.

As we have said before, Nature has provided the coarse, sandy soil of the desert with little or no plant nourishment, hence it is advisable to prepare a bed for projected plantings at least 10 days in advance. The addition of prepared humus together with peat moss to your garden soil will more than repay the small expense involved.

AS AN ADDED precaution it would be well to add the prescribed amount of one of the many compounds on the market which serve to destroy all soil pests deleterious to the plant's growth.

Even while adding much to the spectacular appearance of your garden, Snapdragons and Sweet Peas will provide you with bountiful bouquets for indoor use. The Calendula is also worth consideration; its gold, yellow, or orange bloom is oft mistaken for Marigold. Bachelor Button, another sun lover, grows to three feet at maturity and may be obtained in white, red, or blue flowers.

In addition to these there are Phlox, Candytuft, Periwinkle, etc. — a flowerbed of any of which will add color to your garden especially if bordered with Alyssum or other border plants. —T.G.M.

NEWEST DESERT TREE is this mesquite-like hybrid grown expressly for arid use by Tex Reese of Tupelo Gardens. Thornless, the tree grows well in hot, dry climates and uses bare minimum of water.

HYBRID TREE IS 'MADE' FOR DESERT

A new type of hybrid tree, especially grown for life in the desert, arid regions of the country, has been developed by Tex Reese of Tupelo Gardens.

The tree is a distant relative to our Desert Mesquite, but one of the important differences is that it has never acquired the thorns so characteristic of our North American variety.

REESE SPENT 25 years perfecting the tree, which today is fast-growing, thick foliage, and which uses a minimum of water.

Reese started his quest one day 25 years ago when he noted while visiting in the Imperial Valley that there was extreme heat and a sparsity of good shade trees.

He decided to do something about it.

HE STARTED by taking up a search for a pollinator for the mesquite from South America. After many months of searching he found it in a giant male mesquite located in the Mojave Desert three miles from the nearest highway. The tree was a monarch in its own right, having a 3½-foot trunk despite its more than 100 years of heat and desert storms.

This would be the cross breed for his new tree, he decided.

Three years of gathering pollen, even longer waiting for small plants to grow and some 20 years later the new hybrid is a perfect tree for desert life. With its fast-spreading thick foliage combining beauty and hardness, it is considered one of the most significant Southwestern agricultural advances in years.

THE FIFTEEN years of development of the tree was followed by 10 years of testing it and its growing ability.

Today Reese offers the tree on the market, and is the only nurseryman in the business who has written on his order form: "If anything happens to this tree, free replacement of the tree up to 3 months, a new tree at one-half cost up to three years."

To indicate the growing power of the new tree, Reese pointed out that any tree that is purchased within the next two months will double in size this year.

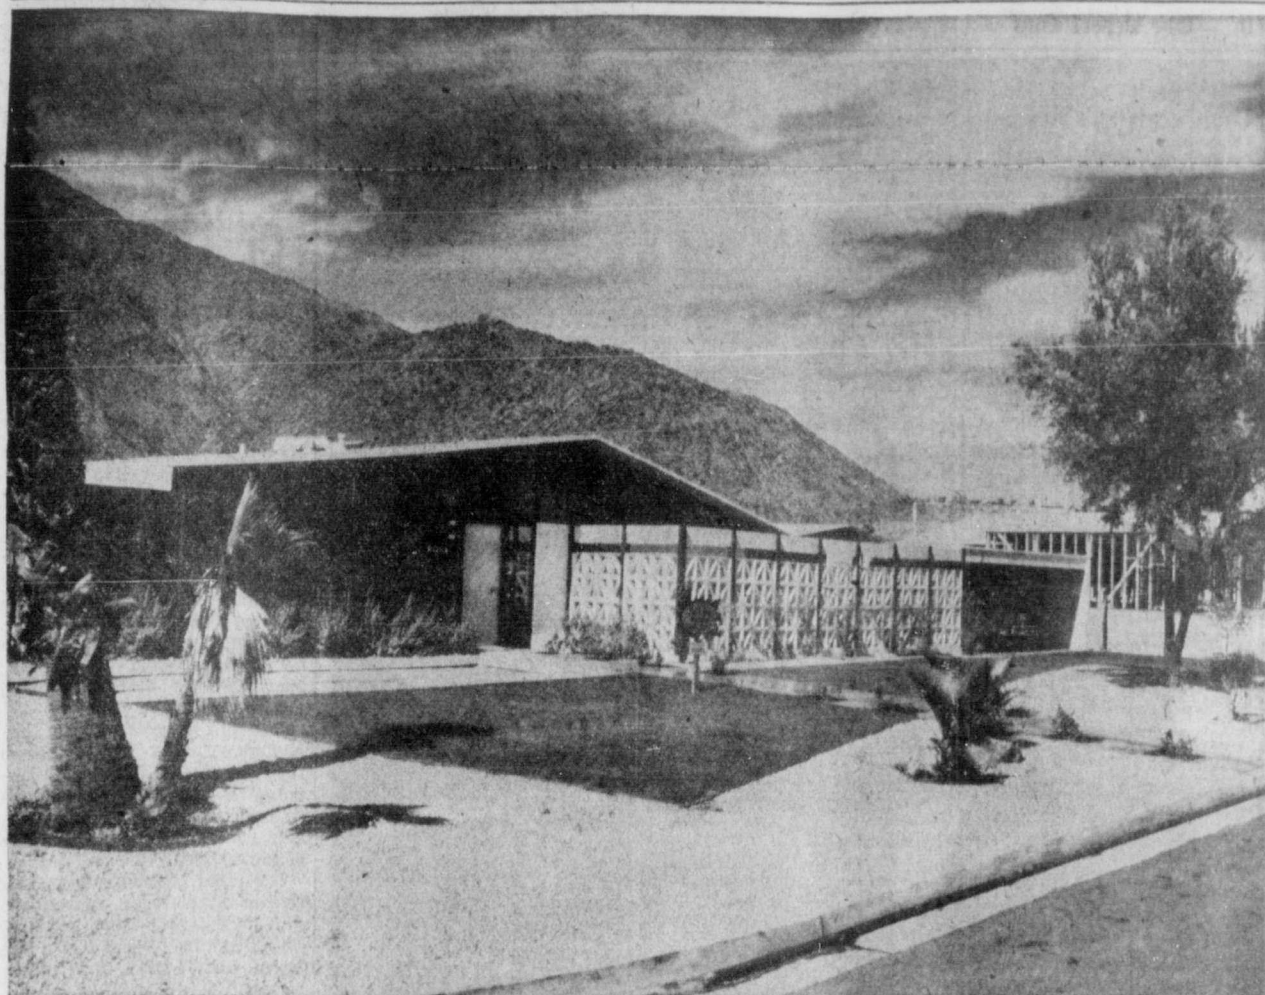

DEMAND FOR THE new tree is catching on fast. Already the state is talking of putting them along the planting areas of its freeway systems, and some firms are interested in using the trees for a wind-break along Highway 60-70-99.

His stock has built up at a very fast ratio. With 2,000 trees ready for planting last year, more than 50,000 have been made ready for distribution this year.

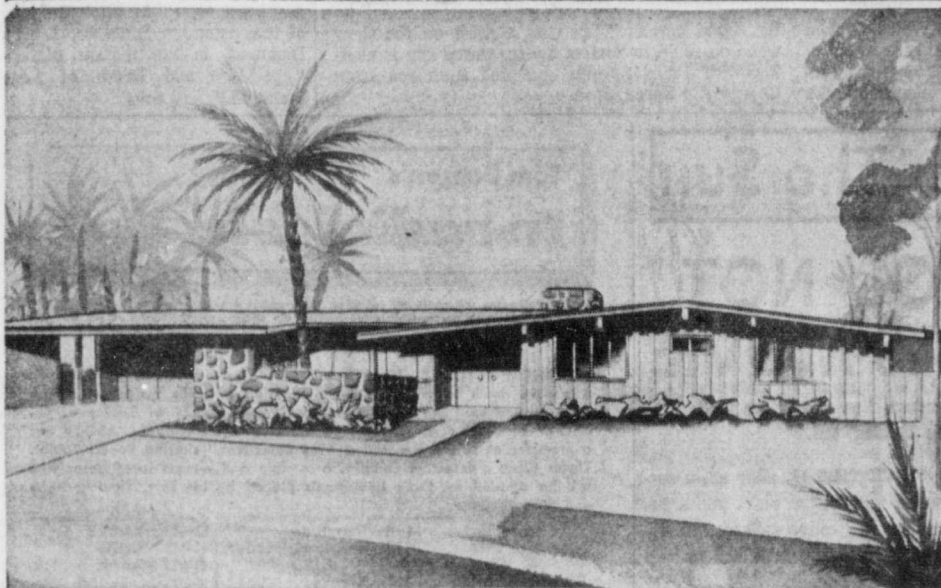

Reese is head of Tupelo Gardens, located at Oildale, California, and announced this week that he plans to open a new distribution point in Desert Hot Springs. The location will be announced within a fortnight in The Desert Sun.

Framing Lumber Does Heavy Duty

Most of the heavy duty work in a home is done by the framing lumber, not necessarily the exterior siding or interior wood paneling, which is always seen.

HOMES IN GOLDEN VISTA Estates are rapidly nearing completion for immediate occupancy. This Alexander Construction Co. development in the exclusive Las Palmas district offers true estate homes from $31,950 to $32,950 with moderate down. Dick Ranspot in charge of sales reports the heavy demand for homes has caused the company to double building schedule. Shown above is Model Home at 963 Via Monte Vista, now open to the public.

ONE OF THE NEW MODEL homes now nearing completion at El Dorado Palms Estates adjoining Indian Wells Golf Course on Highway 111 near Palm Desert. Twenty new homes are now under construction in this luxury development. Features of the new homes are sunken Roman baths with lavish use of imported Italian, Belgian and Norwegian marble in bath and lavatory; Medallion all-electric award winning kitchens; massive wood burning—or gas log—fireplaces of native fieldstone, chocolate mountain rock, masonry and volcanic ash. Unit refrigerated air-conditioning with touch control "Weathermaker" automatic regulation; generous double sliding wardrobes, walk-in closets with as many as eight wardrobes per home. A furnished model home is open daily and Sunday from 10 a.m. To reach El Dorado Palms Estates drive through Palm Desert to the West border of Indian Wells Golf Course. Turn right and follow signs to the model homes.

Medallion Award Homes to Break Previous Marks

SPECIAL TO THE DESERT SUN
SAN BERNARDINO — Southern California construction of electric Medallion Award Homes will break all area and nationwide records by the end of 1959, utility representatives agreed today as they met to discuss plans for 1960.

Members of the Medallion Home Council of Southern California said that 1958 Southland electric home construction figures have already been surpassed this year and that by the end of 1959 a total of 23,300 Medallion Homes will have been constructed in the area.

THE COUNCIL, composed of representatives of all Southland electric utilities, met in San Bernardino to hear reports on "growing home buyer preference for electric homes reflected in the success of the Medallion Home program."

Conducted nationally and locally by the nation's electric utilities, the Medallion Home program is designed to upgrade electrical standards of new homes and to stimulate public interest in construction featuring modern electric living.

MEDALLION COUNCIL representatives said that the Southern California area leads all other areas of the nation in the construction of Medallion Homes and that they expect over 32,350 of them to be constructed in the Southland during 1960 as the national and local electric living program is accelerated.

Utilities and representatives attending the San Bernardino meeting held at the offices of California Electric Power Company included: J. C. Meserve and V. F. Martin, Southern California Edison Co.; Hugh C. Cate and V. A. Behrens, Los Angeles Department of Water and Power; A. J. McCutcheon and Arthur R. Ellis, San Diego Gas and Electric Co.; B. K. Campbell, Riverside Electric Department; and Ralph Munson, John R. McNeese and C. E. Kiefer, Calnetric.

America Still Has Enemy Can't Defeat-Fire

NEW YORK (UPI) — America — strong industrially as well as militarily — has an enemy at home it just hasn't been able to lick. That enemy is fire which last year cost 7,000 lives and more than $1 billion in property damage.

Architectural Forum finds that there is no such thing as a fire-proof building.

MATTHEW BRAIDICH, research director of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, says "no material is totally immune to fire."

Hazards Magazine, published by Industrial Publishing Corp. of Cleveland, finds a new hazard in industrial plants—namely in the many built in suburban communities where fire protection is inadequate.

THE FORUM SAYS we are building "pretty" firetraps or "firetraps modern." In the future, it adds, "architects will design for fire safety, that is, buildings will still be vulnerable to fire, but will be better designed for rapid exit and better equipped for early detection."

Hazards points out that too often the communities in which new plants are being built depend on other communities miles away for fire protection.

It finds that industrial fires totaled 38,000 in 1954 with $150 million in losses and 41,000 in 1957 with losses of $230 million.

"Fire is still the number one threat to industry," Hazard says, and industry is not doing enough about it."

Sinks Play New Decoration Role

Kitchens are as much the province of interior decorators as any other room in the house. These professionals frequently play one texture against another. For example, they will contrast the smooth, satin gleam of stainless steel with brick, unglazed tile or natural woods, according to the Elkey Home Service Bureau.

Collegiate Cowboys Set For 'Rodeo'

Channel 11 Show
Saturday Filmed
At Cowntown, Penn.

The excitement and thrills of bronc busting competition with collegiate cowboys are seen during Cowntown Rodeo returning to Channel Eleven, Saturday, Oct. 17, 7:30 p.m.

Bill Webber emcees Cowntown Rodeo while Howard Harris points out technicalities involved in the different classifications of Brahman steer wrestling, saddle bronc riding, calf roping, dogie tying, bucking bronc bareback riding, and bull riding.

Channel Eleven's Rodeo has buckeros doing a switcheroo since the show is filmed at "Cowntown," a 4,000 acre working cattle ranch some twenty miles outside the Ivy League atmosphere of Philadelphia.

Top rated cowpunchers participate in actual rodeo competitions with spills as they come, and Harris scours the various states for action - fast bulls and outlaw horses.

To Play 'Legs'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — New York stage actor George Scott C. has been signed to play the part of the notorious gangster, Legs Diamond, in the motion picture "The Life and Death of Legs Diamond."

EMCEE GARRY MOORE chats with Mrs. Zaddie Bunker, Palm Springs' flying great grandmother, after her appearance on CBS-TV's "I've Got A Secret." Her secret was: "I flew a jet plane and broke the sound barrier." She was a guest on the show while en route to Seville, Spain, where she is visiting with Palm Springs' adopted squadron from George Air Force Base.

TV-Radio in The Sun 'FALLEN IDOL' NOT AS GOOD AS MOVIE

By FRED DANZIG
United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI) — Thanks to late TV movies, the "Fallen Idol" has become as much a part of the TV screen as the test pattern.

And this familiarity apparently led to its taking its place in CBS-TV's DuPont Show of the Month drama anthology.

SINCE COMPARISONS to the movie are going to be made all over the place, I'll say at the start that the 1950 British-made film was better. The TV version of Graham Greene's suspense story was not as subtle as the film, nor did it slide across the bumper seams in the plot very gracefully. However, the teleplay still made for an interesting 90 minutes' thanks chiefly to some unusual acting by Jack Hawkins and young Jacques Hirschler.

The story deals with a youngster who worships the family butler, Baines, but loathes Baines' nasty wife. The lad becomes involved in the butler's side romance with a secretary and, when Mrs. Baines is killed, tells enough lies to put Scotland Yard on Baines' trail.

SINCE THIS IS, after all, a suspense vehicle, there are numerous overheard conversations, snooping, big lies and little lies to help the plot along.

A distinguishing feature in the teleplay was the performance of Master Hirschler, an 8-year-old who, we are told, never acted before. The youngster has one of those appealing little faces that is old and wise, sad and mischievous all at the same time.

OCCASIONALLY, HIS inexperience showed. He would steal a sidelong glance off-camera, and was sometimes inaudible; some of his reactions seemed too flabby. Yet, he came across as a most appealing little guy, a sturdy performer in a difficult role and a definite asset to the show.

Jack Hawkins, as Baines, was excellent. The more difficult the scene, the better he seemed to be. I was especially impressed with his discipline in a tea-room scene, where he was talking to his sweetheart while the boy listened.

To Honor Hagen at Eldorado

By JACK CUDDY
United Press International

Walter Hagen, golf's grand old ambassador of goodwill, will be a guest of honor next month at the Ryder Cup matches in Palm Desert, it was revealed just as the British team sailed for New York.

So, let's hope 66-year-old Walt doesn't forget himself and root for the wrong outfit when Great Britain's best 10 tees-off against the outstanding U.S. pros at Eldorado Country Club Nov. 6-7, climaxing a week of super-golf.

THE GREAT HAGEN of Watersmeet, Mich., did have a mental lapse one windy June sundown in 1937 at Southport, Eng., when American Ryder Cuppers had beaten the British on British fairways for the first time.

Hagen, non-playing captain of Star-Spangled team, was to accept the trophy in a ceremonial presentation on the first fairway before 15,000, including the then Prince of Wales.

Walt asked Fred Corcoran, publicist and team manager, to jot down a few prompting notes for the Hagen acceptance speech. Hagen carefully placed the notes in a pocket of his large tan polo coat. But when he was called to the rostrum, he shrugged out of his coat and left it on a chair, along with the notes.

SOMEWHAT FLUSTERED by his lack of written ammunition, the husky, ruddy-faced Walt started his speech: "Friends — I'm very happy and honored to be the captain of the first United States Ryder Cup team to win on home soil."

He was interrupted by loud yells from the crowd. "Hey! You're on foreign soil! Hey! Don't you know you're not home?"

Hagen blinked, gulped — and then brightened. He held up his hands for silence. He held up four fingers and yelled back:

"Well, you can't blame me for feeling at home over here!"

THE CROWD, seeing his four fingers and realizing they referred to his four victories in the British Open, roared its hilarious appreciation more than five minutes. And he didn't have to say another word.

Corcoran, recalling the spectacle today, declared: "They idolized him in the British Isles — and everywhere else, for that matter. He certainly was the most popular golfer of all time."

HAL WOOD'S PICKS

Oregon to Beat Air Force His Upset of Week

By HAL WOOD
United Press International

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The picknik picks:

Oregon over Air Force Academy — the upset special. Dopesters pick the Falcons by one touchdown. But coach Len Casanova's crew is coming along fast and should be able to get by the Air Force team that has had trouble — even while winning — every game it has played this year. By one.

Southern California over Washington — the Trojans have problems in the Northwest country, but this is supposed to be the most powerful squad from the West Coast in many years. The backfield speed and the strong USC line, led by the McKeever twins, should prove the difference. By 10.

STANFORD over Washington State — Both teams whipped poor College of Pacific. But the Cougars were pushed all over the field, while Stanford at least held its own. Dick Norman's passing will make it rough on the WSU defenders. By three.

UCLA over California — The Bruins, well-rested after a week-end off, take on a club that was mauled by Notre Dame last Saturday. Golden Bears suffering from three licks in a row. By 13.

San Jose State over Fresno State — The Spartans do a run-away job when they drop down a bit in class. Bulldogs have one of their best teams in recent years. So do the Spartans, despite the record. By 9.

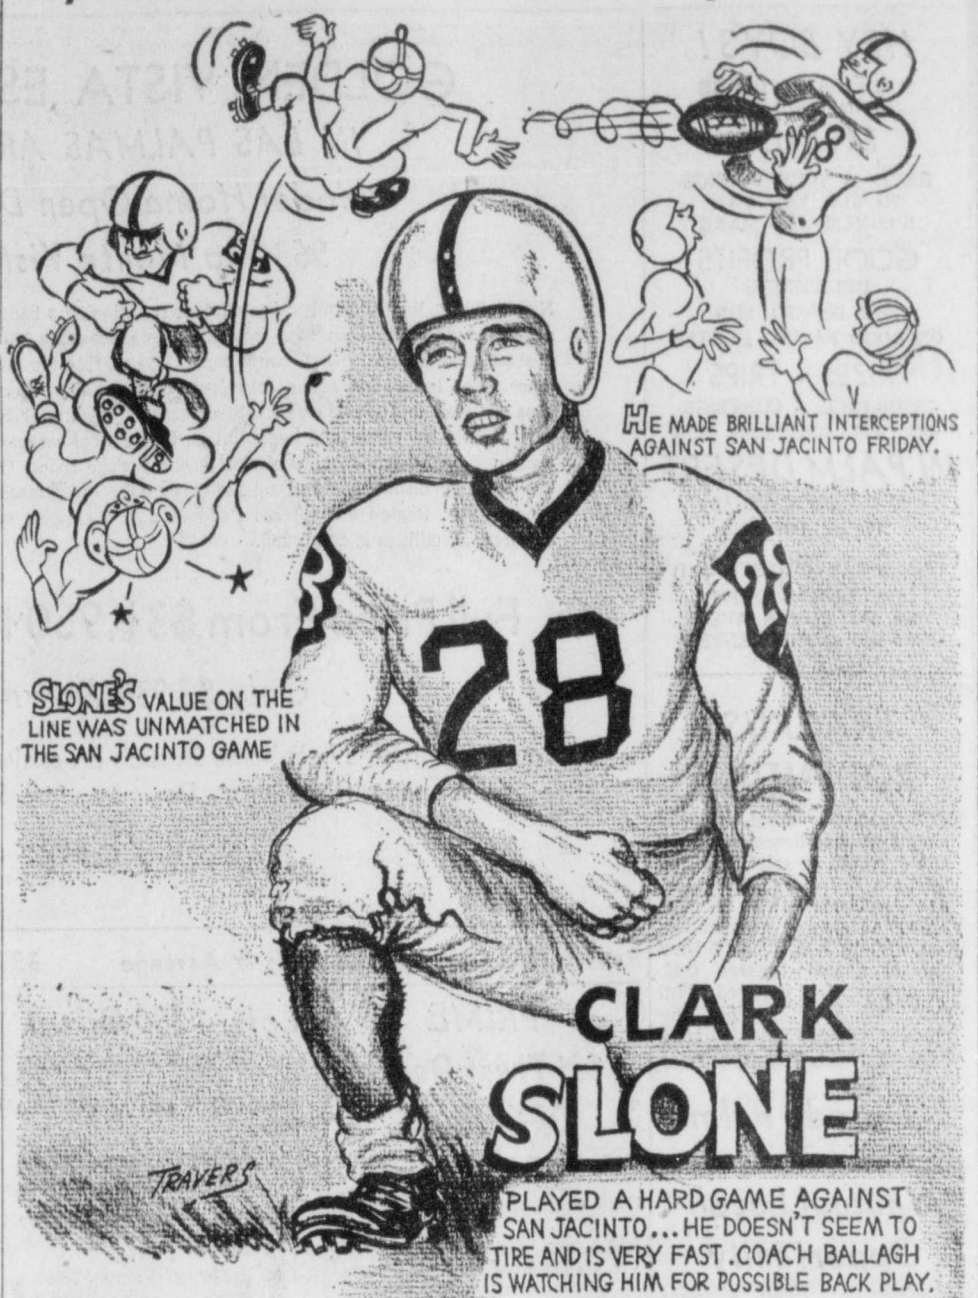

OREGON STATE over Idaho-Bearers, with a fast-improving squad, finally tangle with a club they can handle. Neither team has won a game this year — but the OSC competition has been a mite tougher. By 20.

Forty Trojans Take Off for Washington

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A band of 40 players from the University of Southern California embarked today by air for Seattle where the Trojan football team meets Washington Saturday.

JVs Defeat Hemet to Win Third Straight

South African Leads Orange County Open

COSTA MESA (UPI) — A South African who has won only $470 as a professional golfer led the field today into the second round of the $20,000 Orange County Open—two strokes ahead of his nearest rival.

Brian Wilkes, of Johannesburg, who joined the professional tour at Detroit in August, shot a six-under par 65 Thursday on the new Mesa Verde Country Club course. Two strokes behind him were Ken Venturi, San Francisco; Frank Stranahan, Toledo, Ohio; and Crystal River, Fla., and Jim Ferree, also Crystal River — all with 67s. Thirty-seven broke par on the first day of the 72-hole tourney.

Wilkes won $270 in the Motor City Open at Detroit, and picked up another $200 at the Rubber City Open. But he has failed to pick up any cash in seven other events.

On Thursday, Wilkes birdied eight holes and bogeyed two — the third and 18th — in his sub-par round.

Eight men were bunched at 68 when play resumed today. They included Gene Littler, Singing Hills, Calif.; Jay Hebert, Sanford, Fla.; Frank Wharton, Dallas, Tex.; Jimmy Clark and Jerry Barber, Los Angeles; Jon Gustin, Beaumont, Tex.; and Tom Nierpoite, Bronxville, N.Y.

Fletcher Jones, Los Angeles, was low amateur with a 70. The tournament continues through Sunday.

Chuck Baker Scores Both Local TDs

Palm Springs High School Junior Varsity football team racked up its third straight practice win last night when the Papoose outfit ran over Hemet JVs 13 to 0 on the home gridiron.

It was their first home game and completed the practice season. Next week they entertain Indio High here in their first Desert-Valley League JV game.

CHUCK BAKER scored both touchdowns for the local team, both via line plays from around 15 yards out.

The team, under the teaching of Head Coach Bob Gilmore and Line Coach Dick Hough has run up a total of 73 points against 6 in its three games to date. They defeated Perris 40-0, San Jacinto 20-6, and now Hemet, 13-0.

Orioles Recall Four from Farms

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The Baltimore Orioles recalled four of their farm hands today, including their $125,000 "bonus baby," Dave Nicholson.

Nicholson, a 20-year-old outfielder, was recalled from Aberdeen of the Northern League; second baseman Marv Breeding and first baseman Ray (Buddy) Barker from Vancouver of the Pacific Coast League, and outfielder Al Nagel from Amarillo of the Texas League. All four will report to the Orioles' training camp at Miami, Fla., next February.

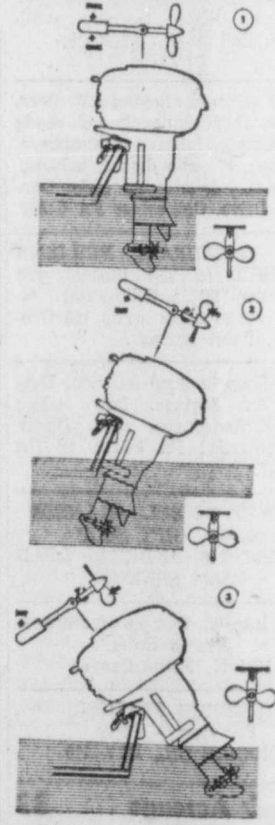

Name Three to New Grid Hall of Fame

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UPI) — Doak Walker, Doc Blanchard and Charlie Trippi, three standouts of the '40's, were among 10 new members selected today for the National Football Hall of Fame to be constructed here shortly.

DUKES QUILTS PISTONS

DETROIT (UPI) — Walt Dukes, a controversial figure with the Detroit Pistons for the past two seasons, has apparently quit the National Basketball Association club over a salary disagreement.

BUY DOTTERER'S CONTRACT — CINCINNATI (UPI) — The Cincinnati Reds have purchased the contract of third baseman Tom Dotterer from Nashville of the Southern Association.

Indians at Hemet Tonight For Final Practice Game

Cripples Return to Line Up

Coach Clare Ballagh of the Palm Springs High School Indian football team, takes his charges on a trip this afternoon hoping that a change in scenery may bring a change in luck.

It is the fourth practice game for the tribe and the first one away from home.

They played their first three games here and lost them all.

INJURIES have plagued the Indians during the fore part of the season but some of the boys are expected to be back tonight and others by the time the Desert-Valley League season starts a week from tonight.

Bill Smith, half back, injured in the Perris game, is expected to see partial service and the injured Jim Garland, tackle, may also see action tonight.

BALLAGH said the Hemet Bulldogs have a tough, fast team which last week defeated Banning 13-0. Hemet and Palm Springs have met many times when both were members of the defunct Riverside County League.

Hemet is now in the DeAnza League and Palm Springs in the Desert Valley loop.

Both start their league seasons next Friday.

OTHER GAMES tonight involving Desert League schools pit Banning against Beaumont at Banning; Coachella Valley hosting St. Francis of Pasadena; Twenty-nine Palms at Elsinore and Yucaipa at San Jacinto. Indio High plays Ruidoso tomorrow.

Coach Ballagh will probably start Rollins and Gus Walton at ends; Coleman and Karunkel at tackles; J. D. Walton and Gauff at guards, Erie at center; Hill, Cockerham, Smith and Gomez in the backfield.

Trojans, Bruins Favored by 8 in Big Five Games

By SCOTT BAILLIE

United Press International

Southern California and UCLA get off their laurels Saturday after a two-week rest and go forth to prove that Los Angeles once more is the home of powerhouse football.

The sixth-rated Trojans are eight point choices to defeat Washington in an important game at Seattle while the odds board shows the Bruins favored by the same spread to hand California's Bears their fourth straight loss.

BOTH GAMES are Big Five meetings. While USC and UCLA had last Saturday off, the new loop opened with Washington taking over first place by tripping Stanford, 10-0.

Coach Don Clark of Troy, ignoring the weatherman, has had his gridders working out at times on a damp field just in case it comes up wet in Seattle. Quarterback Bob Hynes of the Huskies is listed as a doubtful starter.

Dan Ficca, Southern Cal's powerful tackle, is ready for action after being laid up. And Willie Wood, their gifted quarterback, also may return although he appeared finished earlier this season after incurring a shoulder separation.

COACH BILL BARNES of UCLA says tailback Bill Kilmer has slumped down a little during the Bruins' two week lull. He said he expects a rough battle with Cal, which has been worked over by such titans as Iowa, Texas and Notre Dame. The Bruins should be quicker now, Barnes feels, with Kilmer a little trimmer. Cal, outscored by Notre Dame but never outthought, heads southward with ends Gael Bartsotti and Skip Huber ailing while quarterback Wayne Crow has a bad ankle.

USC goes up to Seattle with impressive wins over Pitt and Ohio State. UCLA opened the season with a scoreless tie then lost a 25-21 hair-raiser to the Panthers.

BANKS WINS TOP UPI AWARD AGAIN

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ernie Banks, homer-hitting shortstop of the Chicago Cubs, is the United Press International's National League Player of the Year for the second consecutive season.

The slender, 28-year-old slugger from Dallas, Tex., was voted the honor today in the annual balloting of the UPI's 24-man committee of NL experts. Banks received a total of 12 votes to beat out Hank Aaron of the Milwaukee Braves, the league batting champion, who polled eight votes. Ed Mathews of the Braves, who led the circuit with 46 homers, received two votes and outfielder Wally Moon of the Los Angeles Dodgers and rookie sensation Willie McCovey of the San Francisco Giants got one each.

The fifth-place Cubs didn't rate much banner-line space because of the three-cornered NL pennant fight but Banks made his own headlines.

RECORD SERIES CHECKS FOR DODGERS AND SOX

NEW YORK (UPI) — The largest World Series checks in history are being mailed out today to the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers and Chicago White Sox — courtesy of the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Each of 29 Dodger players will receive a record full share of $11,231.18 and each of 31 members of the White Sox will get $7,275.17, also a record for a losing share. The biggest jackpot in World Series history was announced by baseball Commissioner Ford Frick Thursday and the record total player pool of $893,301.40 was made possible by the fact that more than 90,000 fans attended each game played in the mammoth Coliseum.

Previous high for a winners' share was $11,147.90 by the New York Giants in 1954, after they beat the Cleveland Indians in four straight games. The highest previous losing share was $6,934.34 received by the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1956.

A full second-place share was worth $1,808.16 to the Milwaukee Braves and $1,799.94 to the Cleveland Indians. Among those out in for a full share by the Braves was Red Schoendienst, who saw little action due to his convalescence from tuberculosis.

The third-place San Francisco Giants drew $1,388.34 for a full share and the New York Yankees, long accustomed to the lion's share, had to settle for a full third place share of $1,229.32. For fourth place a full share was worth $589.99 to the Pittsburgh Pirates and $601.60 to the Detroit Tigers.

TORRES FLOORS BUSSO IN SURPRISE KNOCKOUT

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Raymundo (Battling) Torres of Reynosa, Mexico, scored a surprise second-round knockout Thursday night over seasoned Johnny Bussio, the fourth-ranked lightweight from New York City, in a scheduled 10-round fight.

Torres, 136 1/2, decked Bussio twice in the first round and once in the second before finally knocking him through the ropes and out in 41 seconds of the second.

Bussio, 137, was not counted out, but obviously was in no condition to continue when referee Charlie Randolph halted the fight. Under California rules, it was a knockout victory.

It was Torres' 21st knockout in 27 professional fights. He went into the bout a 2 1/2-1 favorite, but mainly because of an influx of Mexican money.

SANTA FE FEDERAL Savings and Loan Association celebrated its 70th anniversary by installing replicas of 1890 "general stores" in their offices. The store sold cigars for a nickel, licorice sticks, horehound drops and hard candy, and offered crackers in a barrel for the enjoyment of the visitors. Above, L. P. Patterson, Santa Fe president, is shown making a purchase, while Katherine Costello, company secretary, checks material for a tablecloth. The smiling sales girl is Hope Kent, a teller for the association. Thousands of Villagers visited the local association offices during the celebration, according to Jim Givens, vice president and manager.

"A Few Kind Words for Realtors"

A large segment of the Palm Springs' population that is gainfully employed locally deals in real estate. We think it is about time somebody said a few kind words in praise of the magnificent contribution these people have made towards the growth, betterment and assured future of this world-famous desert city.

When a realtor sells a home or business property he has added another building block to the growing structure of Palm Springs. These are our kind of people. Our only regret is that we wish that we knew them better and that they knew us better for we are amazed that many of them are passing up a great profit opportunity for themselves. This week we would like to devote our space to extending a special invitation to everyone in the real estate business in Palm Springs. We would like you good folks to visit our various developments. Here you will find our homes in various stages of construction so you can see for yourself the magnificent values they represent and their sales potential. We have a projected $7,500,000 program in progress with a potential $250,000 in sales commissions. This is business you cannot afford to pass up somebody is going to get it and it might well be you. It is a proven fact that year after year Alexander homes are the easiest to sell because they represent the greatest values and are the most desirable for the greatest number of buyers.
